DETAILED ACTION

Applicant's request for reconsideration of the finality of the rejection of the last Office action is persuasive and, therefore, the finality of that action is withdrawn.

Response to Amendment

Claims 3, 6, 13, 16 and 19-22 are amended.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

Claims 3-8, 11-19 and 22 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Blosch et al. (US 6,012,556) in view of Gordon et al. (US 5,086,884), and further in view of Blanchard (US 5,601,000).

Regarding claims 3-8, 11-19 and 22, Blosch discloses a brake application system (fig. 1) comprising: a wear adjuster (48 and 50), a spindle (56), spindle drive (58), a nut (60), an actuating device (20), motor (22 and 50), gear-wheel gear (52) and a gear segment (28).

Blosch does not disclose the clutch in the actuation mechanism of the brake, but Gordon provides this well know alternative mechanism in the area of elements (62, 66, 68, 69). It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to have substituted (adapted) this actuating device for the one of Blosch at (56 and 60) since such a modification would merely amount to the substitution of one well know type of actuating mechanism for another dependent upon the particular application for the brake.

The modified clutch arrangement of Blosch is not a slip clutch as claimed, but Blanchard discloses a cone slip clutch arrangement (fig. 1, (3)) (see also abstract) mounted slidably and come into engagement with the bearing surfaces of the driven member. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to have the modified clutch of Blosch as slip clutch as taught by Blanchard in order to protect the driving member and the gearing member from getting damaged while limiting the amount of torque transmitted to the system.

Claims 20 and 21 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Blosch et al. (US 6,012,556) in view of Gordon et al. (US 5,086,884) as applied to claims 3-8, 11-19 and 22 above, and further in view of Akamatsu et al. (US 5,799,757).

Regarding claims 20 and 21, Blosch discloses all claimed elements as set forth above, but fails to disclose a spring free wheel. However, Akamatsu discloses a brake device (fig. 2) with a free wheel spring clutch arrangement at (16 or 30, 31). Note the two motors at (11) and (19) (which control the function of the spring). Such a motor/gear/wear adjuster arrangement could be substituted for the same arrangement in a device as Blosch, as the replacement of one well known actuating mechanism for another.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 3-8 and 11-22 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Conclusion

Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
